What we're doing to help

Science

Working with scientist to have up to date information on what the best way to combat plastic waste is. This information also helps to improve our educational endeavours.

Education

Education
Leading talks and offering online resources to teachers helps to inform our next generation. We believe information is key and have worked with hundreds of schools to help them educate. We have also worked closely with some schools directly to help integrate the cutting edge science and information into the curriculum.

Practical solutions

Practicality
Although it's helpful to provide information as a resource we also believe that action is required now. We are working with several nationwide supermarkets to help them minimise their plastic usage. And we've even out there physically cleaning up as much plastic as we can, and investing in technology to help us move away from our dependency on plastic.
